Bro. Bogle.

Rev. John A. Bogle's nomination by three or four hundred majority over his compatriot for the office of superintendent of common schools gives general satisfaction throughout the county. In this connection I am reminded of a little incident that proves how closely he attends to his duties. When the last big Main street fire occurred here, Bro. Bogle was filling a position on the INTERIOR JOURNAL and every Friday morning would return to Hustonville, taking the mail to the office with him. On the night in question, it was your correspondent's good fortune to be sharing a pillow with that reverend gentleman, and on waking up when the flames were enveloping the building and almost the very room we were occupying, he sprang out of bed with the exclamation—"Roll out of there, boy, the town is on fire, but where is that mail?" at the same time making a rush for the door, with nothing on but a hat and one shoe and a bundle of INTERIOR JOURNAL under his arm, leaving many valuables in the room to care for themselves, while a follow-up in a similar manner, with a brass horn and cornet under each arm, which happened to be in the room at the time. When Bro. Bogle struck the brilliantly illuminated street, for almost a dozen large buildings and business houses were ablaze, the picture he presented was an novel that even in the intense excitement everybody had to stop work to smile, but he got the mail to its destination at the same, with the mail following, and I mention this fact to prove that he attends to even trivial matters under the most trying circumstances when it becomes necessary. There is more genuine wit in Bro. Bogle than in a dozen ordinary men and all his writings and sayings are eagerly sought after. He is a great favorite wherever he is known, and though he is going down the steady side of life's long hill, our hope is that he may remain here till Gabriel comes and call all his good people home.—[Scribble in Hordenburg Democrat.]

Pearls.

There has always been a great mystery connected with pearls, and especially as to the manner of their formation, and even at the present time very few persons know what pearls really are. Scientists tell us they are hard, white, smooth, shining substances found in a tentacle of the oyster kind. Pearls refer to them as "the globe of light," "the moon of waters," and "hoar frost of heaven." The ancient Greeks and Romans esteemed pearls more highly than any other jewels, and with very good reason, for, unlike other gems, they require no aid from art to bring out their beauty and luster. Frequent reference is made to them in the bible, and they are associated with many superstitions. The Chinese believe they possess extraordinary medical properties and the Egyptians disolve and drink them as a love potion. Cleopatra is said to have only followed the custom of her race when she drank the famous pearl draft to the health of Marc Antony. This custom, silly as it is, does not appear to be wholly confined to the Egyptians, for there is strong reason to believe that the story of Sir Thomas Gresham's having drunk a dissolved pearl that cost $75,000 is not without some foundation in fact. The Persians are said to be the best judges of pearls and pay the highest prices for them. The Hindus are firm in belief that pearls oysters descend from the clouds, and after a long immersion in the ocean rise to the surface and reveal in their gaping mouths a few drops of rain water, which are congealed into pearls. This pleasing theory is shared by many Oriental races, but science, it is almost needless to add, has long since exploded it.

A new soda motor, which performs all the functions of an ordinary locomotive, is in operation on State street, Chicago. It does not require any fire, is noiseless, does not emit any offensive smells, has no exhaust stack or steam whistle to frighten horses, and makes fully as good time as the old-fashioned steam dummy. It takes only thirteen minutes to charge it and it will run continuously for six hours after it is loaded. The Boston & Albany Railroad Company is also building a forty-ton soda fountain to haul its trains through Boston; a similar machine is in successful use upon a road in England, and a company in Minneapolis is about to close a contract that will supply all its cars with two-horse power soda fountains.

Two men of Newport, Me., discovered a large drove of seals on Chesney's ledge the other day. They had been driven there by the fierce gales. When the men tried to slaughter them with clubs the seals showed fight and drove the men to their boat. They returned soon with guns, and shot thirty-five of the largest seals.

"The shortest route to some men's hearts is through their stomachs," says an exchange. "Take that route to some men's hearts and you'll be star-headed when you get there, if you are not lost entirely."—[Scribble in Herald.]

HUSTONVILLE, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—We had a storm of wind, rain, hail and snow Saturday evening and night, strongly suggestive of the vivacious pranks of an infant cyclone. Throughout Sunday there was little improvement and Monday is not propitious for energetic gardening.

—Certain editors are indulging in uncomplimentary comparisons between two respectable professions, based on the allegation that while there is one preacher in the penitentiary, there is not a single editor there. May not the fact, if it be a fact, be accounted for on the confessed reluctance of the enforcers of the law to "give the devil his due?"

—Mr. Dunn returned from Georgia Saturday. Col. Weatherford and party have got back from Texas, having made arrangements, I understand, to go into business permanently there. Miss Mac Logan proposes to remove to Louisville to-day, to be joined by Miss Battie in a few days. Mrs. Woods, our postmistress, who has been visiting friends in Garrard, returned Saturday.

—The Wayneburg people don't always know a good thing when they see it, but they are certainly making commendable progress in the right direction in many things. They have banished intoxicating liquors, built one of the best school houses in the county, have a flourishing Sunday school and have just completed one of the neatest and most commodious village churches to be found in the commonwealth.

A Pretty Little Romance.

In the spring of 1861 I was a 14-year old boy going to school in the town of Fayetteville. The war had been sound, and every one-golden-haired lawyer of that town was blowing off his eloquence, telling us what a noble thing it would be for a fellow to go to the front, and be shot down on the altar of his country; how his name would be printed in history, and what a hero he would be though dead, and if he should stay at home when the boys came back he would be called a traitor and a coward.

I, like all boys, had a sweetheart, a hazel-eyed, brown-haired beauty. If there is anything I have a weakness for it is brown hair. When I told her I had joined the army we both cried, but she said she knew I had done right, but it would break her heart to see me go, and made me promise to come home often.

We promised to be true to each other, and when the war was over we would get married and be happy the rest of our lives. She helped to make my uniform and get me ready for the front. The day came for our company to leave—the saddest hour of my life had arrived—I went to her to bid her good-by. As I took her by the hand she fell on my manly bosom and wept. I also wept. The scene was a very affecting one. Some of the oldest inhabitants who witnessed a similar scene said she loved me and she didn't care who knew it.

Twice a week the mail man would hand me a nice little white envelope, and in it I would find written on perfumed gilt-edged paper words of love. After reading I would place them next to my heart and at night dream of her and the happy meeting that was to come; but the course of true love never did run smooth. One day the ugliest and laziest man in our company was discharged, for what I never knew, unless it was for ugliness. He went home. He lived on an adjoining farm, where my ideal lived. Soon the letters began to get scarce, then they ceased altogether. This I could not understand. But one of the boys who came from home explained the mystery. She had married the fellow who had been discharged. This was an awful blow to me, but I mustered up courage, got my letters and letters in the campfire, threw her picture into the creek and said things of "the girl I left behind me." She is now the happy mother of eight dirty-faced boys and her husband is bailiff of his district.—[J. M. S. in Johnsbury (Ga.) News.]

Sam Jones on Base-Ball.

"I learned how to love a man once by a game of town ball. When I was a boy we used to play town ball. But I will tell you what, if I had a dog and he were to go out and look at a game of base ball an hour I would go and kill him. I would. None of your base ball in mine. There is not a more corrupting thing this side of hell than base ball. Now put that down. They all thought that I had forgotten that. I never have had any use for it. The idea of a great big young buck 25 years old running all over creation after a ball. If your mother or wanted you to cut a stick of wood she couldn't get you to do it to save her life, but you dress up in a foot's garb and run after a ball the hottest day, until your tongue falls out, you fool you.

"That ain't all. It is one of the finest fields for gambling in America. And that is not all. I wouldn't wipe my feet on any crowd that would go out and play base ball on the Sabbath. Those are my sentiments. I couldn't put it in any more concise way than that. I don't know whether you agree with me or not; but you understand me, I reckon, don't you? I will let my boy play ball until he is ten years old, but after he is fifteen years old I believe I will wear him out if I catch him at such fooling as that."

—The unexpected sometimes takes place in matrimony. A Madison-county couple have just been blessed with a girl baby, the first child in twenty-four years.—[Times.]

GARRARD COUNTY DEPARTMENT.

Lancaster.

—The Opera House managers have opened a skating rink.

—The window glass in the engine-house were broken out again Saturday night.

—The Owsley Rifles will give a supper and drill at the Opera House Friday night, the proceeds to be used to buy uniforms for the remainder of the company. All who have an interest in the welfare of the boys should attend.

—Miss Georgie Brown, of Mt. Vernon, is visiting Mrs. R. E. Thompson, near town. Miss Marian Wolford, of Pl. Lick, was visiting Miss Fleece Cook last week. Messrs. C. C. Carson, Henry Wilson and Sam Wilhite, of Stanford, were in town Saturday evening.

—Miss Francis Willard delivered her celebrated lecture on temperance at the Christian church last Friday evening. A large audience attended. The opinion seems to have been universal that the lecture was the finest ever delivered here.

A Charming Little Story.

Several years ago a resident of one of the suburbs had the misfortune to become totally blind, a catastrophe forming over his eyes. While in this condition his wife died. A young German girl, whom the unfortunate man had never seen, was very attentive to his wife in her last illness, and, after her death, did what she could to make the grief-stricken husband and his two little children as comfortable as possible.

Such devotion did not go unrewarded. The blind man proposed and was accepted. He married the faithful girl. Two children were the result of their union. During his years of blindness the sightless man never lost hope that some day he might again look into the beauties of nature and the loved ones around him.

A physician was finally consulted, who agreed to attempt the removal of the cataract. The operation was successful, and he from whom the light of day had been shut out so many years saw again. He was almost beside himself with joy. A friend, who was at once recognized, came, leading a lady, by the hand.

"Do you know who this is?" he said to the happy fellow.

"No, I do not."

"That is your wife," and then the pair, one of whom had never seen the other, fell into each other's arms, and a domestic scene of pathetic beauty ensued.

The two children were also brought in to their father. He clasped them to his beating heart, and all the miseries of the past were forgotten in the pleasure of that moment. This is a true story. The actors in this life panorama, covering a period of ten years, are all alive. The husband sees as well as he ever did, and is now in business in this city.—[Cincinnati Sun.]

She Clapped.

"I want to ask your advice about a novel I am writing," she confidentially remarked to a Woodworth-avenue book-seller yesterday.

"I shall be happy to give it."

"The hero of my story is wounded by Indians and comes home with his arm in a sling."

"That's good."

"My heroine meets him with great joy, and she clasps her in his arms."

"Perfectly proper, I'd do it myself."

"Yes, but don't you see that one of his arms is in a sling? How could she clasp?"

"That's so. And yet he must come home wounded?"

"He must."

"And she must be clasped?"

"She ought to be."

"Yes, that's so, but you must look out for the critics. How would it do to have her clasp him?"

MT. VERNON DEPARTMENT.

Managed by Jno. B. Fish.

—The class in German has ceased to meet for the present. It will be organized again later on.

—To-day is county court, with a very good crowd in town. Our jail has had no occupants since court adjourned.

—Grass, wheat and rye are beginning to show their life. A few more days like last week and stock will be able to live without being fed.

—The postoffice will be moved as soon as permission from the department can be had, to the store house of Mr. H. Carpenter. This will be a much better location and will afford much room.

—Mr. Frank H. Rappert, of this place, has received an appointment in the law department of the United States Treasury under first comptroller M. J. Durham. He will start for Washington to-day.

—The boys have been catching some very nice fish within the last few days. Willie Adams, Jr., of Garrard county, is opening up a stock of goods in the house recently occupied by Jack Adams, Jr.

—F. L. Thompson, Jack Adams, Jr., Willie Adams and S. W. Paris have all been to the cities for their spring goods. M. C. Miller, of Austin, Texas, is visiting at this place. W. M. Weber, of Knoxville, Tenn., is spending a few days with relatives at this place. Miss Georgia Brown is visiting Mrs. R. E. Thompson, of Garrard.

The marriage of first cousins is forbidden in five States and permitted in thirty-three. It is perfectly right, scientifically (but, perhaps, not morally), for first cousins to marry. Dr. Carpenter's researches showed that there was a smaller percentage of deteriorating children from those closely related than from those not related at all. He took the children of 10,000 cousins and 10,000 not cousins. The proportions were 34 to 1 in favor of relatives marrying. He then inquired into the percentage of 10,000 imbeciles, 10,000 idiots and 10,000 lunatics, which confirmed his conclusions. Scientifically, man is an animal, and in-and-in breeding is as beneficial to him physically as it is to other animals. Morally, however, restrictions must be placed upon it; but all restrictions against the intermarriage of relatives must be placed upon the grounds of morals, not upon the ground of physical well-being. New York permits even closer marriages, as a man may in this State marry his niece or a woman her nephew. Such marriages are unquestionably immoral—as the law permitting a woman to have two or more legal husbands or a man to have two or more legal wives.—[World.]

—The charge made by the Frankfort Yeoman that the leaders of the democratic party in the State were responsible for the wretched condition of affairs was the swan-song of that paper. If the Yeoman had only struck the same note ten years ago it would to-day have been alive and prosperous.—[Breckenridge News.]

Vermont Hambletonian.

This fine stallion will make the season of 1886 at my place, three miles from Stanford on the Stanford & Danville pike, at $15 to insure a Mare in Foal.

He is a black, bred in 1852, sixteen hands high, by William Welch, by Rysdyke's Hambletonian; 1st dam Kate by Gill's Vermont; 2d dam Black Swan by Holm's Yorkshire, by Imp. Yorkshire; 3d dam Little Emily by Wagner, by Imp. Wagner; 4th dam Emily Speed by Imp. Leviathan; 5th dam by Packard; 6th dam by Gleaner; 7th dam by Maryland Phoenix; 8th dam by Hambleton; 9th dam by Billy, by Power. (See Emily Speed in Bruce's Stud Book, Vol. 1, page 293.) Vermont Hambletonian is a very bold-going, with fine style and bone, good action, sired William Welch, with private record of 25. Vermont being a grand son of Rysdyke's Hambletonian, the grand sire of Sir and Gill's Vermont combined, backed by thorough blood, ought to make a fine stock horse.

I will also stand at the same place a fine Jack, Imp. Victor.

Stanford, Ky., . . . March 23, 1886

W. P. WALTON.

The bill passed by the House requiring that all examining trials in cases of homicide shall be before the county judge at the county seat should become a law for various reasons. The further provisions of the act which requires only one magistrate to sit in the examination of other cases and which limits his costs in any examining trial to $1, will effect a great saving and the ends of justice will be met as well as now, when two justices are required to hold such examinations, for one man practically decides anyway, that is, one is for holding and the other for acquittal, the prisoner goes free. The paying therefore for two men is money thrown away.

We agree with the Elizabethtown News that the newspaper war on Gov. Knott on account of the convict question is both unreasonable and unjust. He does not make the laws, but it is his sworn duty to see that they are executed, whether that duty is distasteful or not. Instead of blame, he should receive the highest praise for his promptness in sending troops to protect the convicts to which the State is a party and see that mobbers are not allowed to dictate what shall or shall not be done. Had he failed to do so he would have deserved the severest censure.

The Legislature seems to spend about half of its time resolving to adjourn and the other half in rescinding such resolutions. The Senate has decided 19 to 10 to adjourn finally on the 8th of April, but if the House were in any possible contingency to agree to it, the first named body would vote at once to reconsider. The best plan is to go steadily to work and adjourn the first moment possible, wasting no time in useless resolutions offered and passed to enable some fellow to make a "record."

MAJ. FRY LAWRENCE has addressed a communication to the Senate, which is a salutary arraignment of Mr. John R. Proctor for his recklessness and extravagance as chairman of the commissioners to the New Orleans Exposition, and asks that he be permitted to prove his entire unworthiness of the trust imposed in him. The Major was one of the commissioners and we suppose was not consulted in the management of the finances as much as he thinks he ought to have been, hence this vigorous kick.

"THAT D—N gambling bill," as Speaker Offutt calls it, may yet cut some figure in his future aspirations, unless when it comes up his rulings are so impartial there will be no ground for the impression, he himself has produced, that he is opposed to making it a felony to gamble in this State. Although the committee resolved and its action was sustained by the House to exclude Mr. Madden, there is no ground for the assertion that his statement was false in every particular.

The Knights of Labor are kicking vigorously over the proposed passage of a law to make boycotting a felony but some such a check seems necessary. We concede to every man the right to refuse to work for any person or corporation he chooses, but there his right should end, and it should be made unlawful for him to conspire with others to injure a man's business simply because he will not run it to suit them.

The massacre of thirteen negroes by a cowardly white mob in the court-house at Carrollton, La., while some of the number were in custody of the court, is an ineffaceable blot on the name of the State, which should exhaust every means at its disposal to bring the guilty to trial and punishment. The negroes may have behaved badly, but the courts are open to try them for any breaches of the law.

The labor troubles instigated in many cases by the demagogic newspapers and egged on in others, continue to swell and multiply. An observant writer thinks the situation the most critical for years and that the signs all point to a disastrous panic, which will effect the whole country.

WARDEN TAYLOR is back in charge of the penitentiary and South after costing the State a hundred thousand dollars or so to get rid of him, will return to his mountain home. May we never look again upon such a disgraceful muddle as the jacksawed Legislatures created over him.

The Williamsburg Times, which has been issued in a very contracted form since brother Newkirk's heavy loss by fire, will resume its former proportions next issue. It is mighty hard to keep a good man down, if he has any energy at all.

ANOTHER call for $10,000,000 three per cent. bonds, to mature May 1st, has been made by the Secretary of the Treasury. This makes three this year.

Mrs. Dickson and Mrs. Wood, the latter distantly related to the President, are applicants for the postoffice at Harrodsburg.

A number of miners and others met in Williamsburg Saturday and demanded that the Legislature repeal the law authorizing the employment of convicts in coal mines.

Judge Durham seems especially fond of the Reppert family. He secured William a good place at Washington not long since and now he gives Frank a $1,200 law clerkship.

The fees of jailers in Kentucky last year amounted to $91,165.03, paid by the State for maintaining law-breakers in the jails until trial or expiration of sentence of confinement. Here is a good chance for effective retrenchment and reform.—[Frankfort Capital.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

—Up to Saturday 1,238 bills had been introduced in the General Assembly.

—Pall Thompson's bill regulating the jurisdiction of county judges in examining trials, amended so as to make it exclusive only in cases of homicide, passed the House.

—The committee to investigate the Offutt-Madden matter made a report, sustaining the Speaker in his order prohibiting Madden from the floor of the House, which was adopted by that body.

—Mr. Bobbitt offered a resolution in the House the other day that the Legislature serve the balance of the time without pay, as the treasury was empty. The Speaker immediately declared him out of order, and hardly a member of the Legislature speaks to him now.—[Owens News.

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

—President Cleveland has just turned his 49th year.

—The mother of Secretary of War Endicott, died at Salem, Mass., aged 85.

—Pal Rogers was fined $75 and given 90 days in jail at Richmond for resisting an officer.

—Judge Baxter has ordered the foreclosure sale of the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia road.

—John Gillespie, who foully murdered Mrs. Gray, was taken from the sheriff and hung near Knoxville.

—Several prisoners, including one murderer, escaped from the Bardonia jail. The latter was recaptured.

—George Q. Cannon, the suspected polygamist under arrest at Salt Lake City, has forfeited his $25,000 bond.

—A horrible murder is reported from Cincinnati, Mrs. Bohman killing her son, herself and seriously injuring another son.

—The debt of Lexington aggregates $136,000, not including the cost of the Court-House, which has already reached $117,637.

—In the Lebanon district Russell received 3,598 votes for circuit judge and Thomas 2,774, Shuck for commonwealth attorney 3,258; Pattison 2,990.

—Down at Randolph, Tenn., Miss Templeton horsewhipped Mr. Crouch for engaging himself to another young lady while he was betrothed to herself.

—The entire free list of the Morrision Tariff Bill, with the exception of Indian corn, hay and oats, was adopted by the Ways and Means Committee.

—Jefferson Davis will lecture in Montgomery in behalf of the monument to be erected there commemorative of the Alabama soldiers who died in the war.

—The election committee decided by a vote of 8 to 6 that the Hon. Frank Hurd, of Ohio, is not entitled to the Congressional contested seat. Rumors ran ahead, they hold.

—Edward Johnson, of Burt county, Illinois, murdered H. C. Steadman for a dose of citizens, he resisted, killing two of them and wounding others. Taking refuge in a barn he held a hundred men at bay all night and late Sunday afternoon had not yet been captured. A special train with reinforcements was ordered, and if they should fail to take him the barn will be fired.

—A new element has lately received cognizance in the already complicated relations of the Knights of Labor and capital. The injunction of the Catholic church against the union of its members with secret societies has been construed to extend to this organization of workmen, and no Catholic is now allowed to become a Knight. This is an effectual check on the unlimited extension of this already vast and powerful organization which may prove to be of the utmost moment.—[Times.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

—Corn for sale. M. S. Peyton, Stanford.

—A few more Jersey cows for sale. J. G. Carpenter.

—L. D. Garner bought of Wm. Cloyd a fine jack for $500.

—Twenty-five or thirty tons of nice timothy hay, baled, for sale. J. Bright, Stanford.

—Danyille Wilkes will make the present season at Nunnally's livery stable. See "ad" in next issue.

—The wheat crop as seen from the pike from here to Danville is in a most promising condition. Some of the fields are as green as if it were May. Reports from all over the country say that the prospect is good for a fair crop.

—The Friebe & Lake herd of 101 cattle were killed at Cynthiana Saturday under the provisions of the pleuro-pneumonia bill. Only a few of the whole number were actually diseased but all had been quarantined and regarded as possibly infected. Of those killed 85 belonged to the late John K. Lake and had cost many of them from $100 to $800 a head. The State pays $30 a head for all.

—W. A. Owens sold last Friday to Ed McCarty, of Boyle, for his brothers at Russellville, a dark gray jack 153 hands high for $1,100. D. C. Terhune bought 25 head of mules 2 years old this spring of Joe Coffey & Bro., of Lincoln county, for $2,300 or $88 per head. Mr. Terhune also bought another car-load last week, consisting of 27 head, the average cost of which was $75.40, and these were all good cotton mules.—[Harrodsburg Democrat.

—LANCASTER COURT.—About 350 cattle on the market yesterday; bidding a little livelier than usual. Prices ranged from $3 to 4 cents; horses sold from $100 to $135; no mules were offered. The horse show was pretty well patronized. Charles Dunn's Messenger Chief, Jr., a 2-year-old, was admired greatly; so was also Hubble's Enoch; Warner's Ultimus and W. G. Dunn's Abdallah Messenger made a number of favorites. Crowd good and business a little on the look up.

GEO. O. BARNES.

"Praise the Lord. God is Love and Nothing Else."

DELHI, N. W. P. INDIA, Jan. 22, 1886.

DEATH INTERIOR.—We had two weeks of service at Agra, never to be forgotten. After the first 4 days, which we spent, expensively, at the "Imperial Hotel," our old friend and parishioner C. C. Seymour (in the mean time having his house emptied by the departure of his family to another city) took us in with a whole souled hospitality, that we will ever remember with affectionate gratitude. This dear brother once sat under my ministry in the Punjab, and you may guess how joyful the reunion was. Time has dealt gently with him and with me, and it did not seem as if 25 years had passed over our heads since we last met. A dear Baptist Bro.—Jones by name—gave us the use of his neat little chapel, where, every day, we preached and sang to a house-full of most interested hearers—including a fair proportion of British soldiers; our special proteges. Besides Bro. Seymour we knew no one in Agra, except a few whom we had a mere speaking acquaintance with at Lucknow. But the dear LORD soon gave us friends from among the strangers, as "our gospel" commented itself to them. As usual, eaten had been busy, before our coming, spreading injurious reports, but these turned out—also "as usual"—"rather to the furtherance" of the good cause, after people found out that they were false. A good ministerial brother of the Methodists—Leonard—gave me his pulpit on Sunday—morning and evening. With these exceptions I received no recognition from the ministry—also, "as usual." The fact is, my ministry in India is precisely what it was in America and England—meeting everywhere the same mingled acceptance and rejection. I needn't enlarge, therefore, nor suppress. But we had a "good time" in Agra. Souls were saved, bodies healed, and "the poor had the gospel preached to them," while dear saviors were "built up in their most holy faith." Of course we were very happy in seeing these scriptural objects accomplished, as the dear Lord wrought through us and our simple ministry of "LOVE and Nothing Else."

We have been six days in Delhi, and had a limited access to a few of the soldiers. But finding the confusion of our surroundings too much for us, we concluded to heat a retreat, and so leave for Allahabad tonight.

Our meetings were held in a Baptist chapel—again—which the soldiers secured the use of. But no one came near us, except the little detachment of red-coats. However, we have had a most enjoyable visit to the ancient capital and centre of a bygone grandeur. Praise the LORD!

Our good Major Mackenzie sent up a couple of tents from Fettehgarh. Will proceed on a few days, and did his duties as "Business Manager" admirably. He found Young—of the "Buffs" there, and the two bestirred themselves at such a rate, that, when we arrived, we found everything reminding us of Prospect Point. Will had been up to Saharanpur, and unearthed from our "heavy baggage," our household and culinary utensils, and transferred them to the tents. Young brought "Jacko" from the barracks;—our frisky favorite, left at Allahabad, but banished to her former owner, because she would bite the children, and Mrs. Lucas, whenever occasion offered. He also had two parrots, he had been training perseveringly for this very visit, which he contributed to the equipment.

Our tents were pitched just outside the Cashmere Gate of the city—the very one by which the storming party entered Sept. 14, 1857, and after 5 days incessant fighting, ran nearly 10 times their number of the mutinous Sepoys, out of the opposite gate of Delhi. The old gate and walls are almost as the siege left them—battered and broken by shot and shell, and I felt a thrilling interest in going over the historic ground and recalling the familiar scenes, that were almost things of "life and death" 28 years ago.

For if Delhi had not fallen when it did, the British would have been annihilated. How well do I remember how we at Lahore were torn with suspense when the Cashmere Gate was stormed, and the telegraph gave us from time to time the varied phases of the battle raging within the city walls, for those fateful 5 days. And when the last dispatch came: "Delhi is ours, the Sepoys in full retreat," what language can describe the unutterable relief of our burdened and anxious hearts.

No finer feat of arms is on record than the closing struggle at the siege of Delhi; when less than 7,000, of all arms, with a loss of 60 officers and 1,100 men, by a series of heroic attacks, against overwhelming odds, finally routed the enemy and broke the back of the rebellion.

From the 1st of June to the 20th of September the avenging army—a mere handful at first, and only reinforced by dribbles, grudgingly spared from the already encumbered garrisons of other stations—held on, in spite of fever and cholera; in spite of incessant harassment of attacks by vigilant and well equipped foes, in spite of the consuming heat of the season; until Sir John Lawrence, our grand Chief Commissioner at Lahore, with a rare nerve, and perfect knowledge of the native character, denuded the Punjab of British troops and replaced them with Sikh levies from a province that had scarcely been a decade conquered; sent every available British soldier to Delhi and ordered an immediate attack upon the city, in force, and at all risks.

The result, though at fearful cost, was a triumphant success, and the mutiny was speedily quelled—once this central nest of treason was broken up.

built of hewn red sandstone, towers on the famous "Ridge" about two miles out of the city, where the Anglo-Indian army had its camp.

I happened to meet an English officer there while I was inspecting it, and reading the voluminous inscriptions on the white marble tablets that circle the lowest story of the monument. He was quite familiar with all the localities and from that elevated spot could point out every place where bloody engagements were fought.

"The Hindun," "Badlee ke Serai," "Sulzee Mundi," "Metcalfe," "Hindoo Rao's house," "The Flagstaff Tower," were familiar as household words, from the dread days when each meant a desperate and bloody struggle, but I had never seen them till that day. When we remember that the once dilapidated walls of Delhi had just been put in thorough repair by British engineers; that an admirably appointed arsenal, with every requirement for warfare, fell into the hands of the insurgent; and that the wretches who did most of the murderous mischief, were trained soldiers, armed with admirable weapons, the wonder grows, how the imperial city was ever retaken by such an insignificant force.

But then, I consider, also, how the besiegers were of Abraham's stock; who once, with only 318 hastily armed servants of his household, pursued attacked and defeated 5 Confederate Kings, at the head of a large army, flushed with victory and laden with spoil. "One shall chase a thousand; two put ten thousand to flight" is a scripture that comes to mind when one thinks of the victories gained by such scattered handfuls as fought the stern battles of 1857, in India.

Two days after our arrival at Delhi, occurred the famous "March Past," that crowned the winter manoeuvres of the Indian army. Two corps of 20,000 each, called respectively the "Northern" and "Southern" Forces, had been marching and countermarching, as in war, under skilled generals, until the affair wound up in a pitched battle and afterwards in a grand review. The Governor General was present and nearly every great English official and Indian prince in the country. 35,000 splendidly appointed troops, British and Native, marched past the Viceroy's stand, to the strains of martial music. And a grand sight it was. I never saw an army before, and I can but feebly describe the impression it produced upon me.

The general effect was greatly marred by a pouring rain, that began as soon as the "Review proper" began, and lasted till it finished. Soon the soft ground was ploughed by horses feet and the wheels of nearly a hundred gun carriages, into a stiff "loblolly" ankle deep. Through this the tough foot soldiers of Israel plunged—alternating with their native allies—at a "quick step." It was a painful but joyous sight. Painful to witness the resolute attempts to keep in line and look soldier like in spite of pouring rain, and each foot weighted with unestimated pounds of mud every time it was lifted. Joyous—to see how sturdily they succeeded, and "pulled themselves together," as they passed the Viceroy, upheaded and invincible. I was glad, on the whole, for the perfectly horrible weather. Any soldiers—German, French or Russian—might have passed in perfect form before that stand, in perfect weather, and on perfect ground. Only British troops could have gone by as they did, that dismal 19th of January. And only they, because they come of an unconquerable stock—marching or fighting—it is all one. Difficulties are but challenges to overcome. Obstacles, but invite more resolute attack. Impossibilities to others, are but the needed stimulus that make the British soldier bear more heavily on his chin strap, and "go for" anything and anybody. I wish you could have seen the "Seaforth Highlanders" that day. Others did well, but this magnificent drilled regiment surpassed all others. I noticed that these heroes of the kill and tartan, touched elbows, and thus afforded mutual support, as they swept by like a solid wall, keeping perfect step in the fearful wind, and having the easy, unlaboring appearance of soldiers performing an easy drill, under pleasant circumstances.

The native troops did admirably under the circumstances, but they were unfortunately shod with the loose, unlaced shoe of the country; that, however adapted to deep marching, is certainly unfitted for deep mud. It was pitiful to see the poor fellows dropping their shoes off at every step, and then attempting to recover them. Some sensible ones, seeing the hopelessness of trying to pull through, perfectly equipped, quietly slipped their shoes off and carried them in the left hand—but others either abandoned their lost property, or trying to recover them, created confusion by dropping out of ranks. It was too ludicrous at times, to resist; and roars of laughter greeted the unhappy Sepoys, who once and again, in making herculean exertions to catch up with their comrades, after "falling out," slipped and fell sprawling in the slush. With a few absurd episodes of this kind, however the whole affair passed off most creditably to all concerned.

Twenty-two States in the Union of the 38 have democratic governors. The home rule of more than three-fifths of the American people is democratic. The democratic hold the House of Representatives by a majority of 43. They lack only seven of a majority in the United States Senate. At the last election of a President the democracy carried 20 States out of 38 by a plurality of 23,000 in a total popular vote of more than 10,000,000.—[New York Sun.

PERSONAL

—Mr. H. C. BRIGHT returned from Texas yesterday.

—Miss LENA LACKEY went to Danville
yesterday to visit relatives.

—Miss MARY JONES has returned from a visit to friends in Danville.

—Miss KATE WRAY WAKEFIELD returned to Bloomington, Ill., yesterday.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McROBERTS have returned from a visit to Harrodsburg.

—Mrs. J. I. McKINNEY returned from a visit to her brother, Col. Slaughter, Sunday.

—Mr. R. BURNETT, of Stanford, was here this week, looking after business interests. (Monticello Signal.)

—Mr. N. SID PLATT, the renowned shirt man, is in town and last night helped the Gold & Silver Band to make melody.

—Mr. C. C. PARRISH, of Virginia, was here a couple of days last week. One of the prettiest and most fascinating of our many beautiful young ladies was the magnet which drew him thither.

—Mr. H. L. PEAKE, who has been clerking for S. L. Powers & Co., left Sunday to accept a position at Georgetown. By his gentlemanly conduct and pleasant manners
he made numerous friends during his stay here, who regretted his departure.

—Mr. J. D. MITCHELL, representing W.
N. Potts & Co., Bonanza Mills, Richmond, was here last week in the interest of his excellent house, which is now turning out 240 barrels of superior flour a day. Mr.
Mitchell was raised here and his friends are very proud of the reputation he has made as a business man and a gentleman at his new home. He has held very creditably several offices of honor and trust and is now the democratic candidate for mayor of Richmond. We wish the merchants here to give him a lift.

the premises.

THE usual equinoctial storm came Sat-

rain, followed by a regular blizzard Sunday,
when it rained, snowed, sleeted, stormed

weather of the past week resumed again, but it is hard to tell what a day may bring forth in the changeable weather of March.

Powers varied the entertainment Saturday night by absolutely giving away many useful articles. He says he gives them all away, only taking the small price bid as a matter of form.

THE new postoffice inspector, E. F. Finley, was here a few days ago, and after going through Capt. Richard's establishment of Middleburg reports a remarkable case of the adoption of two young squirrels by a cat. Dr. Drye, of that place, was presented with two very young squirrels; the doctor also is the owner of a cat which is the happy mother of two kittens. He placed the squirrels with the mother cat and she at once adopted them and has now as much affection for them as for her own offspring.ANOTHER old landmark has disappeared.

The old swinging sign at the Myers House, which for so many years has "swung to and fro," and was regarded by old inhabitants as the best weather prophet known, was razed to the ground Saturday. Now if the proprietor of this house will show still further his zeal for the public good, he will have the hangings of the old bell oiled, or else have it removed entirely.FIRE.—A. H. AND L. H. RYALTY, two brothers near Middleburg, lost by fire last week their house and contents, including all their bedding and clothing, except that which they were wearing at the time. They are both young men and had but recently married—one late in the fall and the other about Christmas, and were keeping house together. This unfortunate occurrence is a sad start in life for the young couple,
but we hope, however, that the old adage may prove true in their case, that a bad beginning may make a good ending.In his report of the Geological Survey and Bureau of Immigration, Mr. Procter mentions the Swiss and German colonies in this county as follows: Switzer: 131 persons; farmers and cattle growers from Switzerland; will commence the manufacture of Swiss cheese in the spring. Luth-erhelm and Highland colonies: Skillful agriculturists from Europe. The growth of these colonies has been phenomenal; they now number 800 persons with constant accessions. They have brought $225,000 into Lincoln county during the past two years.CIRCUIT COURT.—When the case of Zule Campbell, the negro barber, indicted for cutting with intent to kill M. J. Steele, was called, his attorneys, Masteron Peyton and W. H. Miller, moved to quash the indictment because no colored men were on the grand jury, but Judge Owsley, sustained by previous rulings, decided that he had no right to suppress the jury commissioners appointed to select the jury, had failed to do their duty. Exceptions were entered and a demurrer made to the indictment because it failed to state that the knife used was a deadly weapon. It was decided that it was not necessary so to state and then a motion for a change of venue was made,
which will be considered Wednesday.Wee Hansford, who killed Ralph Burket Christmas eve with a rock, was tried yesterday and given two years in the penitentiary. It was generally supposed that Hansford was in a measure justifiable in the act but the proof showed that the killing could easily have been avoided, to say the least.
To-day is set for the trial of the McKinney thieves, some half a dozen or more.

MARRIAGES.

—Col. Robert D. Allen, of the Kentucky
Military Institute, and Miss Minnie Green, daughter of Theodore Green, Esq., were married in Louisville Sunday.—A man and woman were married in Hardin county last week, who had never seen each other till they met at the altar.
He was from Kansas and through mutual friends began a correspondence that resulted in their union. They thus lost all the fun of courtship.—Miss Nora C. Murphy, the youngest and only single daughter of Squire J. S.
Murphy, will be married at the Christian church in Danville, this morning to Mr. T. M. Goodnight, of Franklin county.
Miss Nora is a very lovable young lady and the prospective groom is to be congratulated on securing her as a life partner.

DEATHS.

—John W. Robinson, of Cass county,
Mo., breathed his last on Friday, 19th inst.
He was next to the eldest son of the late Jacob Robinson and is the first of the family of nine children to die. He is 53 and the youngest 47. He was an elder in the Christian church and a good man in every respect.—Mr. Jonas Noakes, father of Mrs. R. S.
Maran, of this place, died suddenly at his home in Henderson, last week, of pneumonia, aged 69. He was one of the leading business men of the city and the News says
"he was possessed of many noble traits of character and was indeed a good and conscientious man." Mrs. Maran was on a visit to her old home at the time of his death and had the mournful consolation of being with him in his last hours. Mr.
Maran did not arrive in time to see him alive.

RELIGIOUS.

—Elder J. G. Livingston has accepted a call to preach once a month for the church at London.—The pulpit at the Presbyterian church was tastefully draped Sunday in memory of Mr. James Paxton, who for a quarter of a century, was an elder and a faithful worker in the church. Two new members were received at the close of the services.—It is calculated that the disestablishment of the Church of England would set free funds equal to $217,500,000, of which,
after the payment of all claims by the clergy for compensation and similar demands,
there would remain a net gain of $500,000,- 000.—Rev. A. S. Moffett, who has had under consideration a call to the pastorate of the Presbyterian church at Nicholasville, has declined. This is a move which is very gratifying to his church here as well as to the community at large. He is an earnest christian worker and an orator of much power.—At Sam Jones' Cincinnati meeting 33,- 000 copper cents and 28,000 nickels were put in the contribution box. There is no
